DUNEDIN FUTURES: THE NEXT TWO DECADES

This course examines the ways that Dunedin might change over the next twenty years or longer. It will consider possibilities which are, of course, subject to consultation and policy changes by future Councils in addition to plans which are already on the drawing board. The majority of the sessions will be led by DCC staff. It is intended that there will be plenty of time for discussion to enable participants to research and form opinions on the possibilities for our city.
