Building Redevelopment in Dunedin

Dunedin City is at the start of a new building boom, in the refurbishment and reuse of our old buildings, many in our remarkable Vogel St quarter but elsewhere too. This takes confidence – in a new future for each building and in the future of our city – and a very special sort of person to run with each challenging development.

Hear the developers and others talk about their project, the dream, the hassles, the work, and, for some, the final product (though many are still at various stages of 'on the way').
