Māori are the indigenous people of Aotearoa New Zealand and this course provides a glimpse into te ao Māori (the Māori world).

The course will be presented by Erica Newman, a Teaching Fellow at Te Tumu, School of Māori, Pacific and Indigenous Studies, Humanities, University of Otago. Erica has been the co-ordinator and part of the team teaching the first year 'Māori Society' paper for the past three years. She is also the co-ordinator for the second year paper 'Māori and Tikanga'. Erica has a BA(Hons) and MA in Māori Studies and has recently submitted a PhD thesis in Pacific Studies.

All applications must be received by Friday 10th August 2018. You will receive a response to your application by Monday 20th August 2018.

Please contact the Secretary to the Board admin@u3adunedin.org.nz, phone 453 4721 with any queries.

Aspects of te ao Māori

(Aspects of the Māori World)

Prior to the arrival of Europeans to Aotearoa New Zealand, the indigenous people were known by their affiliation to their hapū (sub-tribe), iwi (tribe) and waka (canoe), only after interactions with the new arrivals did the indigenous people identify themselves as Māori. Through this course you will be introduced to te ao Māori, the Māori world, and from a Māori perspective you will gain some understanding of their society, history, challenges and changes that contribute to who Māori are today.
