Dunedin has a rich and varied published local history. Ever wondered how this has been researched and written? Hear from experienced published authors—academic, independent professional and amateur.

Local history is broadly defined to include Kaitahu, ethnic, community, institutional, as well as geographical perspectives. The series will end with a panel discussion on the state of our published local history, and where it could go in future.

All applications must be received by Thursday 7th February, 2019. You will receive a response to your application by Monday 16th February, 2019.

Please contact the Programme Secretary courses@u3adunedin.org.nz, phone 467 2594 with any queries.
