The Local History Group is under the leadership of Stuart Strachan, former Hocken Librarian. It is planned that its focus will be Dunedin and, more broadly, Otago regional history, with an emphasis on reading, researching, writing and, perhaps, even publication. It is also envisaged that there will be visits to libraries and archives holding historical information, as well as to notable sites and landmarks of significance, as in the past. In this way, skills and knowledge will be developed to enable members to assist each other through discussion and exchange of information, as well as enhancing their own appreciation.

New members are always welcome, whatever their interest or level of knowledge. We hope to meet at least once a month, with, as always an opportunity for a cup of coffee and informal discussion.
