There are five members in the group and we meet monthly at each other's homes on a Wednesday morning at 10 am, stopping for a break and cup of tea around 11am. The format is that each person brings along two poems, with copies for everyone, based on a topic set by the host person. We discuss each poem sharing our ideas about it. We welcome new members to our group and suggest anyone interested, come along, see what we do, who we are, and then make a decision as to whether it is for you. It is a happy enthusiastic group. You do not need a background in poetry, in fact, it is a great way to find out whether poetry is for you.
